May 14th , 2007 – Vancouver, BC – Quizam Media Corporation

Quizam Media Corporation is pleased to announce that Near North Home Schoolers have signed a deal to use Quizam. Near North Home Schoolers is in the North Bay Ontario area and serves the surrounding communities.

It is estimated by Priesnitz, W. Home-Based Learning in Canada: An Overview of Laws. Canadian Alliance of Home Schoolers, “that there are up to 100,000 home schooled children in Canada, and that this number is growing at a rate of 15% per year”.

Near North Home School is a non denominational school with a group of parents that enjoy their children and want to provide the best education possible. The majority of children start Home Schooling ages 4 to 13 years old. At the age of 13 students enter secondary school. When students enter into secondary schools it's required for them to take provincial exams. Some of the students are not prepared for formal testing.

Near North places a strong emphasis on the 'process of learning', discovering one's strengths and developing a well rounded character that gets along with everyone. It is about life learning and experiencing learning as something natural and delightful.

Kim Boar, Near North Home Schooler Representative for the Ontario Federation of Teaching Parents, has 3 daughters and 1 son. The daughters are now in university and are doing really well. Although a recommendation one daughter made, “is that home schooled children need to get used to taking tests”. Even though Near North does not put a strong emphasis on taking tests, Kim states, “we recognize that it's important to prepare our students for when they will need to take the provincial exams. My son finds Quizam fun and loves using it so I feel comfortable with this kind of testing.”

Irene Dual, Director of New Business states, “85% of homeschooled families own computers, so Quizam fits in naturally. I think the benefit of using Quizam for homeschoolers is that it fits into a family's lifestyle and schedule and the parents' own educational goals for their children. Most importantly, parents understand their children's individual learning styles, interests and compatibility with learning methods.”
